News Highlights

Official Guide to Wake Forest now available »

The Town of Wake Forest is pleased to present the new Official Guide to Wake Forest. The 116-page booklet is designed to educate residents—especially newcomers to Wake Forest—about all our community has to offer. This all-in-one handbook includes restaurant listings, ways to get involved as well as comprehensive information about the full array of Town programs and services.

The guide was mailed to residents and businesses in June. Printed copies can be picked up at no cost at Wake Forest Town Hall. The digital version can be viewed at wakeforestnc.gov, search "guide to wake forest."

2019–20 Annual Budget Highlights »

The 2019-20 budget was approved by the Wake Forest Board of Commissioners in June.

The property tax remains at $0.52 per $100 of assessed property valuation. This equates to a breakdown of $0.41 for Town operations and $0.11 for fire services.

The vehicle fee remains at $25 and no adjustments were made to electric rates.

Leave the fireworks to the professionals. The safest way to enjoy fireworks is by viewing display fireworks—those used in public shows.

Most fireworks illegal in North Carolina

As Americans prepare to celebrate our country's independence, the Wake Forest Police Department is reminding area residents that the possession or discharge of most fireworks that explode, spin, fly, jump in the air, or leave the ground in any way are prohibited by North Carolina law. Illegal explosives include but are not limited to firecrackers, ground spinners, Roman candles, bottle rockets, and mortars.

Residents are also reminded that explosive fireworks, which are sold legally in South Carolina, are illegal in North Carolina.

In North Carolina, fireworks that are available for personal use are those marked as 1.4G. Novelty items, including sparklers, caps for toy pistols, snake and glow worms that emit a snake-like ash, and trick noisemakers, are legal but still can cause injury if not properly handled. In all cases, these items should be kept away from young children and pets.

Wake Forest Police accepting donations of bottled water

The Wake Forest Police Department (WFPD) is now accepting donations of bottled water which they will distribute to users of the Town's greenways.

For the fourth consecutive year, members of the WFPD are distributing bottles of iced water while patrolling Town greenways. Officers regularly patrol the trails in all-terrain vehicles (ATVs) purchased through a grant.

"Handing out bottles of water to local residents who are using our greenways is a great way for officers to interact with the public, while also providing a useful service, especially when it's hot," said Wake Forest Police Chief Jeff Leonard.

Any business, individual or family wishing to donate one or more cases of bottled water may drop them off at the Police Department Main Station, located at 225 S. Taylor St.

The Wake Forest Home & Garden Show on Aug. 24-25 is a great opportunity to explore ideas for enhancing your living space.

Generally, the right-of-way is the strip of land the Town maintains and owns which includes the public road, sidewalk and utility corridor.

RIGHT-OF-WAY

Encroachment agreements now required

A new Town of Wake Forest policy requires residential and commercial developers and installers in the Town's right-of-way to submit a right-of-way encroachment application before beginning work.

The policy, which applies to all new and existing major and minor encroachments, is designed to ensure that there is no adverse impact to public safety or future roadway or utility needs.

Major encroachments include, but are not limited to, hardscape (pavers, fences, retaining walls); streetscape (benches, bike racks); landscaping (planting, irrigation); and utilities (stormwater devices, wells, grease traps, meter repair). Minor encroachments may include outdoor merchandise; street furniture (movable); and awnings.

Generally, the right-of-way is the strip of land the Town maintains and owns which includes the public road, sidewalk and utility corridor. While there are exceptions, the right-of-way generally extends past the sidewalk one foot toward the building or home.

Beginning July 1, the residential application fee will be $25 and the commercial fee will be $50.

To complete the application, developers and installers will require insurance, drawings, and applicable permits. Approved applications must be on file with the Wake County Register of Deeds.

Again, encroachment agreements are required for all new and existing encroachments. If an encroachment agreement is not obtained, the encroachment is subject to removal.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

Ensure your child's car seat is properly installed

In the United States, car crashes are the number one killer of children ages 3 to 14. Additionally, four out of every five child seats are installed incorrectly by parents and caregivers.

Keeping children safe is an important priority for the Wake Forest Police Department. That's why the department is taking aggressive action to reduce the incidence of car seat and safety belt misuse by establishing a free child seat inspection and education program in Wake Forest through www.Buckleupnc.org.

The free program includes a permanent inspection station at the Wake Forest Police Department, 225 S. Taylor St., with regular hours of service and annual community outreach events.

At the inspection station, a nationally certified technician will assist and educate parents and caregivers on the correct way to buckle-up children on every ride.

All child seat inspection and education program activities are by appointment only. For more information or to make an appointment, contact Sgt. J. Jefferson.

Resident's Guide to Trash, Recycling & Yard Waste Pickup

Complete information about Town sanitation guidelines is available in the "Resident's Guide to Trash, Recycling & Yard Waste Pickup." To view the booklet online, visit wakeforestnc.gov and search "Resident's Guide to Trash." The booklet will be mailed to all sanitation customers in the fall.

No plastic bags in the recycling carts, please

Residents are reminded that recycling carts that contain plastic bags or wrap will not be serviced and instead will be tagged with a non-collection notice.

WASTE MATTERS

Town seeks to educate residents about trash & recycling collection guidelines

The Town of Wake Forest is stepping up its efforts to educate sanitation customers about trash and recycling collection guidelines. The community outreach effort will precede a new initiative targeting sanitation collection violators.

Starting Aug. 1, Town and Republic Services crews will begin tagging residents that violate collection guidelines. Residents may receive a "Non-Collection Notice" tag for a variety of reasons, including several common violations:

- Trash and/or recycling carts that are overfull, too close to another cart or blocked
- Trash and/or recycling placed in the wrong cart or improper container
- Trash and/or recycling carts that contain hazardous materials, soil, concrete or brick
- Bulk trash that includes cardboard that needs to be broken down

- Items that must be scheduled for bulk collection
- Electronics that are not eligible for curbside pickup
- Yard waste that exceeds four cubic yards permitted per household
- Yard waste left behind by a contractor
- Limbs, leaves and trash that must be separated
- Leaves containing soil, rocks, limbs, concrete or brick

The first time a resident violates any of these or other collection guidelines, crews will leave a violation notice but collect the materials placed at the curb. However, for each future violation, the resident will receive a non-collection notice that identifies the issue, but their materials will not be collected.

Waste Wizard helps you sort waste wisely

The Waste Wizard is a useful resource that helps residents know which disposable household materials can be recycled and which ones should be thrown away. Available on the Town's website, the "Waste Wizard" is an interactive tool that allows users to type in the name of an item and receive valuable disposal tips.

As a bonus, the Waste Wizard is provided as a function on the Town of Wake Forest app.
